Julie Giddings focuses her practice on the areas of employment and higher education law. She regularly advises employers on a diverse range of employment law issues, including discrimination, retaliation and harassment issues, terminations, employment and severance agreements, employee handbooks, and policies. Julie also works with colleges and universities to provide training and advisement on higher education legal compliance issues. She represents clients in administrative actions and litigation when employment or student affairs-related claims arise. Julie also has experience advising employers on noncompetition and other post-employment restrictions and litigating noncompete and trade secret cases.

Prior to joining Gray Plant Mooty, Julie was a law clerk to the Honorable Arthur J. Boylan at the U.S. District Court for the District of Minnesota and worked as an employment attorney at a large Minneapolis-based law firm.
